Infrastructure Engineering

Zero Touch Operations Infrastructure Engineering

Leveraging on Splunk technologies, we can integrate monitoring and machine learning capabilities to enable infrastructure and application Zero Touch Operations services

Context and client challenges

- With the growing business needs and explosion of the Hybrid Multi-Cloud platform, organizations are seeking solutions to reduce the impact of infrastructure and application faults on Business and Operation team activities.
- This is possible through use of solutions enabling IT Operation team to not only detect problems in real time but reducing these ones predicting them.

New approach and solution

- Built on the Splunk portfolio for IT Ops, integrated with ITSM and automation tools, the solution shows how to enable a Zero Touch Operation service to get faster insight of problem and incidents.
- Splunk's unique capabilities to ingest in real-time logs, traces and metrics across hybrid multi-cloud platforms to get full stack visibility.
- Splunk's native AI/ML solution to analyze data in real-time to ensure intelligent end-to-end monitoring of critical service and application to predict future incidents and plan remediation activities.

Client benefits

- High resolution metrics monitoring.
- Leverage AI/ML to predict infrastructure faults and intelligently route remediation activities.
- Reduce the MTTR leveraging on AI/ML for anomaly detection to automatically adapt thresholds and prevent issues in advance.
- Optimized Remediation reducing time & effort to respond to infrastructure issue.
- Integration with ITSM tools to automatically categorize and route incoming alerting to the right teams.
